

Publishers Writers Network

The Publishers Writers Network (PWN) is a gathering of professionals and amateurs in the writing and publishing world for an entertaining and engaging evening.

This month Satish Kumar, editor of Resurgence, will join us for our PWN session to share his experiences in writing and publishing. He will also be sharing his ideas on environmental sustainability.

Satish Kumar is a Pilgrim of Peace! A Spiritual Emissary! A Living Legend!
His wisdom inspires peak personal performance at all levels of life!

Fired, and inspired, by the example of Bertrand Russell, he undertook an 8,000 mile peace pilgrimage: walking, walking, walking...with no funds! From India, to each of the four nuclear arms capitals: Moscow, Paris, London, and Washington DC. He kept walking. To the leaders of each of the four nuclear powers, symbolising his vision via a packet of 'peace tea' to each, he conveyed his message of godliness: love, harmony, and peace.

His autobiography, No Destination, was first published in 1978. Another book: You Are, Therefore I Am – A Declaration of Dependence, is a transliteration of the ancient Sanskrit philosophy of So Hum. Satish's third book The Buddha and the Terrorist was published in November 2004.

Satish Kumar teaches and runs workshops internationally on reverential ecology, holistic education and voluntary simplicity. His thoughts have immediate applications in our lives, in business, politics, and within society in general.

Facilitator

Dilip Mukerjea is actively involved in developing skills that significantly enhance a person's creative and innovative capabilities. He is the author of several bestsellers on human peak performance: Superbrain, Brain Symphony, Building Brainpower, Unleashing Genius and Surfing the Intellect. As a public speaker and seminar presenter, his aim is to see this world transformed from a state of rupture to one of rapture.
